An Expressoin of Sincere Appreciation

We are extremely thankful for the thousands of encouraging words we have received during the campaign we have conducted. Many letter are received by us daily from persons we have never met, but who have taken an interest in our efforts to bring about better conditions in Tulsa.

We are grateful for the substantial increase in our retail department. Although we have been, and are boycotted by the painters and paperhangers union, our retail sales have increased stadily. We want to express our sincere thanks to our customers and to assure them that the malicious actions of the unions, while temporarily affecting us, will have no lasting

We do not intend to submit to to the increase in wages of the painters and paperhangers on March 1 from $8 to $10 a day. Our customers would only have to pay it. To allow this increase would surely incline the union to ask for another increase in a few weeks.

After March 1 our employes will be put on a co-operative, profit-sharing basis. For every dollar they save up to $20 from their salaries, we will give them another dollar. If they save $20 a month, we will give them $20

And there will be no increase in the prices charged our customers. We make only 10 per cent net profit. We do not believe this figure is exherbitant or that it is profiteering. We will give $1,000 to any charitable institution if it will show that we make a greater profit than this.

We are not "independent." We welcome both new and old customers in our store, treat them courteously and show them every consideration possible. We endeavor to conduct our store on sound business principles which will cause customers to return again and again.

Our campaign has been conducted in what we believe to be the best interests of all Tulsa, and not for any selfish motives. If it will save the community even a quarter million dollars during the coming year, we will have been well repaid.

If the consumer refuses determinedly to pay increased labor prices, and increased prices for merchandise that is not a necessity, they will not be increased. The consumer must say the final word.
